EDITOR'S NOTES: A new strategy this issue. In the past I have always tried to get this issue to you before the BIG Memphis Show. It has dawned on me, however, that then we don't talk about what went on at Memphis for another three months...thus, pressured by computer gremlins, as well, this issue will report on Memphis.

OUR COVER: They are out there...you just have to find them, as a Michigan member found this lovely #1 note from the Escanaba bank that printed them...but none had ever been seen or reported... What a nice note to put in your collection...U.P. notes...tough!

PRESIDENT'S COLUMN:

After some minor health problems am back at the helm of a collector's life...looking, looking, buying and trading and getting new items for the collections! Doing what all of us do to get that special note, coin or piece of printed paper that no one has seen in years.

I want to share some updates:

President Emeritus Wally Lee and Sue, his better half are back in Michigan from their Florida retreat. Rag Picker editor Bill Brandimore has been elected President of Central States at the recent get together at Columbus! Welcome back home to the Lee's and congratulations Bill.

Board member Larry Falater gave a talk at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial in May attended by many southeastern Michigan numismatists. Sorry I missed the function, was ill. Larry has a wealth of knowledge that he shares with all of us!

Spring Show at the Hyatt

There was a great turnout at the Michigan State Numismatic Spring Show held at the Hyatt in Dearborn. The educational displays were once again handled by Frank Passic and judged by many former blue ribbon winners.

I was thrilled to have received the MSNS Best of Show "Irving Moskovitz Award." The display was entitled "With Governor Lewis Cass." What made this award so ironic, is my father John Pall, an electrical contractor, and Irving Moskovitz, a plumbing and mechanical contractor knew one another and had worked at the same construction sites in southeastern Michigan many, many years ago.

Winning this award...humbled me before a group of peers...that I respect.

My best for now....

Karl

Heber J. Grant

By Frank Clark

I have a $5 Type Two national bank note on the Utah State National Bank of Salt Lake City, Utah charter number 4341. It is always nice to know a little about the bank officers whose signatures appear on the notes, and sometimes you come across material that is worthy of sharing.

The president for the Utah State National Bank was Heber J(eddy) Grant. He was born on November 22, 1856 in Salt Lake City. His father was Jedediah M. Grant. Jedediah Grant was a counselor of Brigham Young. He also served as mayor of Salt Lake City. His mother was Rachael Ridgeway Ivins Grant and she was ensconced in the society of the leading women of the Latter Day Saints community.

Tragically, Heber's father died when he was only nine days old. The cause was "lung disease." Naturally, Heber's mother became the main influence in his life. She had joined the church when she was 19. This was due to the fiery missionary that she had come in contact with, one Jedediah Grant. In fact, she would become one of Jedediah's plural wives in 1855.

After Mr. Grant's death, the family was forced to move into a "widow's cabin." Mrs. Grant declined Church aid and supported her family with sewing and taking in boarders.

The Grant's home was in the Thirteenth Ward of Salt Lake City, and this was where Heber began his ascent in the church hierarchy. First, it was as "block teacher," and then at only the age of fifteen he was ordained to the office of seventy in the priesthood. The next year saw him leave school.

The Thirteenth Ward formed the first Young Men's Improvement Association in 1875 and Grant became the counselor to the president. This led to a busy few years that included selling insurance, selling books, teaching penmanship and working for the Deseret National Bank. This led directly to his appointment by Brigham Young as the cashier of the Church-owned Zion's Savings and Trust Company.

In 1882, Grant was appointed to the Quorum of Twelve Apostles. He felt unprepared for the position and wondered if his business acumen and religion mixed. He came to the conclusion that wealth was honorable if for the common good. Businesses that he started soon thereafter were two insurance companies, the Utah National Bank of Salt Lake City, a newspaper, the Salt Lake Theatre, Utah Sugar Company and many other enterprises.

Grant had three wives. He married Lucy Stringham in 1877. She bore him six children and passed away in 1893 after a long illness. He married Hulda Augusta Winters on May 26, 1884. They had one child together or none depending on the information source. Hulda died in 1952. On May 27, 1884 he married Emily Harris Wells. Emily gave birth to five children before passing away in 1908. Their last child was born in 1899. That was the year that Grant pleaded guilty to cohabitation and paid a $100 fine. This was the most common charge for polygamists. Grant was the last LDS president to practice plural marriage.

The Panic of 1893 saw Grant go to New York City to negotiate credit for the church and himself. His negotiating skills kept the Church and himself afloat, but most of his personal fortune was gone.

Grant proceeded up the church hierarchy ladder, as he opened the Japanese Mormon mission in 1901. In 1903 he also filled the post of head of the European Mormon mission. He attained the presidency of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles in 1916 due to his seniority and in 1918 he was sustained as seventh president of the church. His administration would last for over 26 years, the second longest in church history. He was the first LDS president to be born in the west and the first not to have known Joseph Smith personally.

President Grant spoke before many non-Mormon groups in order to present the Church in a more favorable light. This action met with some success. Another hardship of his administration was the Great Depression. President Grant had to trim church expenses and he also started the Church Welfare Program for impoverished church members during this time. Another crisis was World War II, as it produced a moral dilemma for the pacifist Grant.

President Grant's door was always open to church members and non-Mormons alike until a stroke in 1940. This slowed him down and he had to delegate many of his duties. Most of these duties fell upon J. Reuben Clark, Jr., his first counselor. President Grant died on May 14, 1945 in Salt Lake City.

When I bought this note many years ago, little did I know the story it would unveil.

Memphis, 2006

What a time we had! Although that is generally the rule for the Granddaddy of Paper Money Shows as we celebrated 30 years at Memphis. Mike Crabb and the Memphis coin club are to be congratulated for quality and longevity.

It seems that each Memphis show is like a time stop episode, as when I return I can almost pick up conversations in mid-sentence. I have some great friends that I only see at Memphis. Yet, each year, we pick up right where we left off. This year was no exception.

I drove down with friends and after a 5:10 AM Wausau start, we pulled in almost 800 miles later at about 6:30 PM. We did something new this year, we kept it at 65 to see if it really made that much difference... it did as we averaged almost 29 miles per gallon in my full size Mercury Marquis sedan. After checking in at the Merriott, I set up my exhibit at the Convention Hall and came back to the room. We ate and lounged around a bit before hitting the sack in preparation for the first big day.

At 7:30 AM we were in one of the meeting rooms buying our Raffle tickets for the Society of Paper Money Collector's Breakfast. It worked great for me as I won a neat SPMC polo shirt. This year the format was a little different as a number of awards were presented by President Benny Bolin. Wendell Wolka was his usual entertaining self and particularly enjoyed dispensing the prizes...especially those of an African Royal family. We laughed and laughed and laughed...not unusual when you're around Wendell for any length of time.

After breakfast we hit the floor and renewed relationships with favorite dealers. Tom Denly was so busy at his table, about 3 deep that I didn't even get to talk to him until Saturday. I did manage to do a cash and swap deal with Rob Kravitz with a $5 Educational note that was later graded Fine 15 by PMG. I was hoping for a VF 20, but there was just a little too much soiling on the reverse...then we enjoyed a great pre-auction meal on Lynn Knight and I managed to pick up a nice XF/AU William Windom $2 Silver Certificate. My friends were each successful in their auction assaults, as well, and we went to bed pretty happy.

Saturday was more of the same...visiting and shopping. I was able to add a $7 Continental Congress note to my denomination set and I also cash and swapped for an attractive $10 1928 gold note. Perhaps my best find, was a "Rough on Rats" advertiser. I already had a Rough on Rats check that I used as a cover illustration for the Rag Picker a few years back and the advertising card was more of the same with a clever cartoon on one side.

Saturday afternoon meetings included the Fractional Currency Collectors Board and ended up with our own PMCM meeting. We had a moment of silence in honor of Florence Schook who was a long time Board member and past ANA President. John Wilson moved to send a $100 check to the ANA Library fund in her memory and we so voted. Bob Thiel gave a succinct report...we're in good shape with around $20,000 in assets. Winners of the Writer's Awards are: First place, and $100 for his "Elusive Michigan Type 2's" is Bill Herzog. Second and $50 goes to David Gelwicks for his "Byways of Scripophily" and Third and $25 goes to Frank Clark for his "Refunding Certificates."

I also announced at the meeting that I have given my 104 note UP Michigan National collection to Lyn Knight for his Chicago Auction in March of 2007. They were fun, but I've run into a brick wall and haven't added to the collection in several years...now it's time to share them with other Michigan collectors.

We passed on the auction, as we had spent our money and had a great meal at the Pier along with a trolley ride to get there. Ala Cliff Mishler, I had the combo Filet & Crab Stuffed Shrimp, with a clam chowder appetizer. The meal and the view of the barges plying the Mississippi River made it a memorable meal. Good times and great companionship.. that is what the Memphis Paper Money Show is all about...The drive home was uneventful, but we got a little later start, finally arriving in Wausau about 7:30 PM, And...I'm already looking forward to next year.
